100% true bike shop story (happened today). "I'm not paid to have opinions, sir."

Guy comes in looking for a saddle like the one he bought from us a year ago. Becky's helping him, asks what his name is, so she can look it up and see.

Guy: Oh, I wouldn't be in there, I wouldn't have given you my name.Becky: I can be pretty persuasive, let me check.Guy: Well what, you work for the CIA or something?Becky: YepBecky looks it up, sure enough, it's there.Guy: What, how did you get that?Becky: It's right here dude.Guy: So what do you think happened in Paris? Who's behind it?Becky: I'm not paid to have opinions, sir.

This customer fits into the category of appearing in most ways normal but pretty sure he lives inside a Faraday cage.