

We were there, things went well, but little time to post tonight

It's 11:48pm here in Lourdes France, and normally I would have been going through the photos we took near the top of the Aubisque, a pretty amazingly scenic place today, but instead have to get to bed shortly because I had to rearrange everything for tomorrow's Time Trial adventure because SNCF (French train service) saw fit to cancel the train that would have taken us to Bayonne! So instead of taking a train from Lourdes, we have to get up and out on the road by 7:15am to ride 25 miles to Pau, which still has a train to Bayonne.

For now, if you want to see a fair number of photos taken on today's ride, you can go to my Facebook page. I think this link will get you there. --Mike--