

Phil Collins is, in fact, Not Dead Yet. But doesn't look to be that far away.

Phil Collins approaches the stage using a cane, walking feebly and reminding one of Peter Gabriel playing a very old man in one of his costumed theatrical moments. But no, this wasn't for show, this WAS the show. Phil Collins entertained my wife and I pretty much sitting in a chair the entire two hours of the show.

Funny thing is, we expected to see old people in the audience... really old people... and we saw a few. But overall, the audience actually seemed younger than at the Genesis concert we attended in, what, 2007? A very long time ago.
