

Website was down, Air was brown, and today I was Jeff'ed

Jeff on West Old LaHonda, on a day I wasn't up to keeping up. Long time no write. I can't take all the blame; for reasons unknown, the hosting site for this blog was down for several days. On Sunday my ride was shortened by smoke; I rode up Old LaHonda, headed south on Skyline until I came up against a wall of it (smoke), turned back and headed north on Skyline to 92, literally trading smoke for fog. A good trade.

Tuesday was yet another solo ride, and today started out that way until Jeff comes flying past me, telling me he'll wait at the top. Must have been waiting a long long time today!
