

Did get out on a Christmas ride

Most Christmas days I end up home with the family; often the weather is kind of iffy which helps with the "day off" mentality. But this year, we'd gotten all the present stuff done fairly early, and my wife had enough of a handle on dinner that she took a two hour afternoon nap and that just seemed like the perfect opportunity for an easy ride.

Nothing more than an extension of "the loop", just tipping my toe into Los Altos. Easy pace, stopping here and there for no good reason at all.

And did see the most amazing, largest mushroom colony ever! On Mountain Home Road in Woodside, between the road and the fencing on the west side. I'm including two photos of it, with the picture of the smaller mushrooms, which are "normal" size, giving an idea of just how massive the big ones are.

<script src="https://strava-embeds.com/embed.js"></script>