

First France trip update

Wish it wasn't so much easier to post on Facebook than Wordpress blog entries! But why fight it, if I can link to them here? Presently half an hour delayed getting out of SFO due to late arriving crew. Makes our connection at LHR (London) a bit problematic; that's one of the worst places for connections, and we started with just two hours. Time to start looking at what the next available flight from LHR to Geneva would be, and how that changes our train connection from Geneva to Annecy. Thankfully, the train tickets are good for any train, all day, and I think they leave hourly. But the earlier we arrive the better; we start out with a bit of a ride Thursday morning, the day after we get there. The Columbiere! Done it before; it's a beast, but it's an absolutely stunning beast.